Business Recommendations

ShopSmart Retail Analytics | 2025

Three Key Findings

1. Beauty had the highest sales.

Beauty was the best-performing product category in 2025.

2. December had the highest revenue.

December was the strongest sales month, while February had the lowest sales. ShopSmart may need more stock during busy months.

3. The overall return rate was 5%.

There were 2,500 returns out of 50,000 orders. Home had the highest return rate at 5.23%, followed by Beauty at 5.20%.

Three Business Recommendations

1. Plan stock before busy months.

ShopSmart should prepare early for December. Having enough stock can help the business avoid losing sales.

2. Focus on popular products.

ShopSmart should keep its best-selling products available, especially in the Beauty category. It should also review products that are not selling well.

3. Look into product returns.

ShopSmart should check why customers return Home and Beauty products. This could help the business improve product quality and customer satisfaction.

One Risk

Running out of stock.

If ShopSmart does not plan its stock properly, popular products may sell out during busy periods. This could lead to lost sales and unhappy customers.

One Opportunity

Growing the Beauty category.

Beauty already brings in the most revenue. ShopSmart could test new promotions and improve stock availability to grow sales further.

Conclusion

ShopSmart can improve its performance by planning stock better, focusing on popular products and reducing returns. These steps could help the business increase sales and keep customers happy.
